Homework

As a policy, I do not want students working much more than 40 minutes/ night on homework throughout the week. It is never my goal to burden the family, but I do think students benefit from working with material learned throughout the day in a quiet, independent atmosphere. Work sent home should not cause undue stress to the family, If an assignment is causing nightly frustration or taking too long, please stop and let me know! I want learning to stay positive.

Note From Ms. Allen

It is hard to believe how quickly the term is flying by! I am busy entering recent grades into the portal, which will give you a clear look at your student's progress as we approach the end of term..

Lately, I have noticed some students rushing through daily classwork to avoid taking homework home. While I love their efficiency, this fast pace is impacting the quality of their work. I want to help them learn that meaningful progress takes time and care. Please encourage your student to always do their best!

Thank you for your support at home!

Ms. Allen

To know and live our faith. To lead and serve by example. To achieve success as lifelong learners.

➤➤ Science Spotlight

Mr. Stipp will visit our class on Tuesday, September 22 to conduct an experiment about circuits. Students will experience electrical flow as we make a closed circuit. This was a favorite activity of our class' last year. Looking forward to the fun with this group!

➤➤ Bring Religion Home

As a family read about how Jesus won the battle over death in 1 Corinthians 15:20-28.

- What is the last enemy to be destroyed
- Why is a life with Christ better than a life apart from Christ?
- How should we live our lives as we wait for God's promise of eternal life?

➤➤ No Spelling This Week

We will not have a spelling test this week as the students are working on a rather large ELA project. Students will use vocabulary learned throughout the unit to enhance their brochures, while we will conduct proofreading workshops to correct common spelling errors.
