NOTE FROM MS. CURL:

All students left their Chromebooks at school this past weekend so I could check their usage. Some students have lost the privilege of taking Chromebooks home every night so that they could charge them for the next day's school work. Chromebooks are intended for use at school, for homework, and for elearning days. Chromebooks are not given to students for evening personal use, playing games, or watching videos. If your student's Chromebook is now staying at school, they need to return their charger to me so that we can charge their Chromebooks at school.
