

Mrs. Norman's Weekly News

Week of September 13th

Important Information/Reminders:

*We are starting our new reading series this week. We do not have our student books/materials, so students will be using the online resources.

*We will have a spelling test on Friday. Students will take a pre-test today in class. They will glue their spelling list with the words they missed highlighted into their Agenda. This will give them a good idea of what words to study for Friday.

*Scholastic Book Orders are coming home today. They will be due Friday if you wish to make a purchase.

What we are learning about this week:

Language Arts -

We are starting our new LA series. Please be patient as we figure this new series out. I know it will be GREAT, but there might be some hiccups along the way.

Math -

We are starting chapter 2 - division this week.

Students will get an opportunity to correct their Ch. 1 test for partial credit this week. I find this is a great opportunity for students to see simple mistakes they made and hopefully not make them again.

Social Studies -

We will discuss 9/11 and review the Branches of Government.

Science-

We will continue our Food Webs unit. We finished the Station Lab, so we will begin the teacher presentation and note-taking.

Religion -

We will continue to talk about how we long for God in our lives. Our test will be Thursday. Students will do a review page on Tuesday and can use this to study.

Tests This Week -

- Grammar Quiz Friday - Over proper sentence form and punctuation
- Spelling Test on Friday
- Ch. 2 Religion Test on Thursday
